Ike Names McElroy To Succeed Sec. Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neil H. McElroy, a super salesman of soap for the past 32 years, was named Wednesday by President Eisenhower to be secretary of defense.

The selection of McElroy, president of Procter & Gamble, to succeed the retiring Charles E. Wilson came as no surprise. Eisenhower at his morning news conference as much as said the Cincinnati businessman would get the job.

McElroy's nomination was sent to the Senate for confirmation even before Wilson's resignation reached the White House. But, as Eisenhower recalled at his news conference, Wilson had said long ago he was anxious to step out of the Pentagon job he has held for 4½ years.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announced the appointment. Later he said Wilson's resignation had arrived but wouldn't become effective for about a month.

Meanwhile, Hagerty said, McElroy will work with Wilson "to act acquainted with his job."

Financial Sacrifice
Like Wilson before him, McElroy will be called on to make a considerable financial sacrifice in joining the Cabinet. The defense secretaryship pays $25,000 a year, compared with the $285,000 McElroy gets as head of the big soap company.

At a news conference in Cincinnati, McElroy said with a chuckle: "Well, I guess you can say it isn't for profit."

'Good Citizen'
But in a more serious vein, he said: "I think this falls in the range of what a good man people have done. When it involves personal sacrifice and serving the country, they accept the opportunity to serve. It falls in the area of being a good citizen."

He flew back to Cincinnati in the afternoon from Washington where he conferred with the President and Wilson.

McElroy also is expected to face Senate demands that he dispose of some of his stockholdings before moving into the Pentagon. He is a director of General Electric Co. and the Chrysler Corp., which suggests he has some holdings in (Continued on Page 11)

Arrest 2 Youths, Agents Say Tried To Wreck Train

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — FBI agents Wednesday arrested two teen-age brothers who the agents said tried to wreck a train.

The youths held in McLean County Jail are Donald Ray Quinn, 18, and John Quinn, 15. Donald was charged with violating a federal train wrecking statute and his brother with juvenile delinquency.

Federal agents said the boys placed heavy railroad ties and large stones on a bridge of the Jacksonville-Bloomington spur of the Gulf Mobile & Ohio Railroad.

Engineer L. E. England of Roadhouse said he saw the pile in time early Monday night to reduce the speed of his 24-car freight train before it hit the obstruction. The train was undamaged and its six crew members were unhurt.

John B. Stoddard, U. S. attorney in Springfield, said the train wrecking statute carries a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. He said the delinquency charge is the only one allowed under federal law for a 15-year-old.

HONEST TOMMY TRUE
MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A Muskegon lad who lives up to his name was credited Wednesday with the safe return of a wallet-containing money and important papers to owner Nancy Barnard, who lost it at public swimming area. The finder was identified as 7-year-old Tommy True.

Atomic Blast Ignored By Praying Pacifists

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — A jolting atomic blast flared spectacularly over the desert before dawn Wednesday. But a group of pacifists, praying at the edge of the test site, said they ignored the awesome display.

Atomic bombs, said a spokesman for the demonstrators, are "evil and obscene . . . contrary to American and Christian ways."

The bomb, suspended 1,500 feet above the desert floor from a tethered balloon, sent forth a powerful shock wave that collapsed a Navy blimp moored 100,000 yards away and hit observers on News Nob, 10 miles distant, with the force of a blow.

Ike Says, 'Mamie's Fine, Disposition Is Not Too Good'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower reported Wednesday that Mrs. Eisenhower is "doing splendidly" after her operation, but this doesn't mean "that her disposition is necessarily so good about it."

The President made the comment in answering a news conference query about Mrs. Eisenhower's condition.

He said he had just telephoned Walter Reed Army Hospital "a few minutes ago," and Mrs. Eisenhower's "medical condition is all that the doctors could possibly hope."

Then, he added, with a grin: "This does not mean, I think, that her disposition is necessarily so good about it."

In the evening the President spent an hour and a quarter with Mrs. Eisenhower. Asked how the First Lady was feeling, he beamed and replied:

"Fine. Oh, Fine!"

Mrs. Eisenhower underwent a two-hour operation at Walter Reed Tuesday. The precise nature of the surgery, performed by an Army gynecologist, was not disclosed, but White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said it was not a serious operation and did not involve a tumor or any cancerous condition.

JUDGE DECIDES WATER NOT WASTED

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Mrs. Helen Plekarski, arraigned in City Court Wednesday on a charge of wasting water, admitted she poured water on a small section of her garden but said she took a bath in it first.

She was accused of violating a drought emergency ordinance prohibiting the outside use of water. Judge Frank DiLoreto acquitted her, but only after he had personally inspected her garden to verify that only a small section had been watered.

STATE COLLECTIONS UP
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Franchise fees and tax collections in July totaled $2,108,904 or $274,525 more than a year ago, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter said Wednesday.

The pacifists prayed during the 5:25 a. m. test at Camp Mercury, which is on the edge of the test area 65 miles from the detonation point. They said they paid the blast no heed because, "We were engaged in more important work."

Calling themselves the Committee for Nonviolent Action Against Nuclear Weapons, they sent 11 of their number away Tuesday in an avowed effort to stop the tests. Tuesday was the 12th anniversary of the exploding of an atomic bomb over Hiroshima, Japan.

The 11 were arrested a yard or so inside the site. A judge at the county seat of Beatty released them after warning that future violation of trespass laws would mean a $500 fine and six months in jail.

Members of the group, which includes several ministers of various churches, started leaving Nevada Wednesday. Robert Pickus of Chicago, a member of the committee, said: "We feel now the really important job is for members to go back to their home communities and try to reach the people they live and work with every day, with the idea that final responsibility for exploding these bombs rests with them."

Wednesday's blast was the 11th of the summer test series. Its power was compared with that of 20,000 tons of TNT.

It was seen, and later felt, for hundreds of miles. Bishop, Calif., 200 miles distant, reported a rumble and two sharp cracks.

The Atomic Energy Commission said fallout should be light. The top of the mushroom cloud soared to more than 35,000 feet and was blown to the northeast.

JESSIE WILSON'S HAPPY

WALLOON LAKE, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Jessie Ann Wilson beamed happily Wednesday upon hearing that President Eisenhower had nominated a successor to her husband, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

"The news looks good," she exclaimed.

But Mrs. Wilson was a bit perturbed over reports that her husband's retirement from the Cabinet may be delayed while the Senate investigates the secretary-designate, Neil H. McElroy, president of Procter & Gamble Soap Co.

Mrs. Wilson is at the Wilson summer cottage in northern Michigan near Petoskey.

President's News Conference Says He'll Never Employ Threats In His Dealings With Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday he would be the first to admit that maybe "I have not done as well as I might have been doing" to push his civil rights and other bills through Congress.

He told a news conference, however, he is going to keep right on dealing with Congress as he has been: "Never employ threats . . . and try to convince people by the logic of my position."

The President looking cool in the hot conference room in a tan suit complete with buttoned-up vest, fielded more than his usual quota of questions about what he personally has done or failed to do.

A few questions concerned policy matters; such as disarmament. He said he had "utmost hope" in that field. And such as new administration officers. He said he was considering Neil H. McElroy of Cincinnati to replace outgoing Secretary of Defense Wilson, and "an individual" he did not name to take John B. Hollister's place as foreign aid chief when it becomes vacant this fall.

But a good many questions were aimed directly at Eisenhower the individual. Did he have any self-criticism about his efforts on behalf of civil rights and other administration measures? Why didn't he do more about getting the PHS to act?

The note was sounded again and again, in prayer, and statements and song, as top-ranking Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox church leaders from around the earth concluded a nine-day conference.

In a closing chapel service, the Rev. Dr. Ernest A. Payne, of London, said: "At moments we tend to react sharply against the multitude of words that beat against our ears—words, words, words. We wonder what all the talk amounts to, all the night-and-day meetings, the discussions, the committees, the reports."

"I believe we have been hearing and sharing in that process by which God in this century is gathering together his people."

In a final business session, the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches approved a resolution of gratitude for growing brotherhood among men of all races.

Also approved was a resolution pledging the council's fullest help "to member churches which are seeking to bear a clear witness against the evil of racial segregation."

The Rev. Dr. P. O. Borell, of Minneapolis, announced he was withdrawing a suggestion for reconsideration of a vote retaining a churchman in Red Czechoslovakia on the council Executive Committee.

President Eisenhower asked Congress for $500,000 to enable the PHS to be prepared for any epidemics of the malarial. The surgeon general has said that if epidemics should occur "they could spread from San Francisco to Boston in a period as short as perhaps four weeks."

The chief executive also requested authority to transfer about two million dollars of public health funds for use against any large epidemic of the disease. Specifically, the additional $500,000 would be used for the following purposes:

1. To prepare educational material to encourage people to take advantage of a new commercially manufactured vaccine. The government doesn't plan to buy vaccine, except for the armed forces.

Six commercial manufacturers have reported they expect to have about eight million doses available by mid-September, including about four million ordered by the military.

2. Development of materials used in detecting the disease which recently spread from Asia to the Western Hemisphere.

3. Making 10 new specialists in epidemics available to work with state authorities.

The White House also announced that, in the event of an outbreak which constituted an emergency, the secretary of the Health and Welfare Department would be authorized to use about two million dollars to call 100 PHS reserve officers to duty and to provide supplies.

The disease for which the nation is thus marshaling preparedness forces, is relatively mild. So far, both in foreign countries and in the United States, death rates have been low (two-tenths of one per cent) and the duration of the ailment relatively short.

The highest mountain in Canada is Mount Logan in the Yukon, 19,850 feet high.

Charge Military, Atomic Secrets Were His Specialty

NEW YORK (AP) — A slight, quiet Russian colonel, who posed for years as a non-descript Brooklyn artist, was indicted Wednesday as a Soviet spy. A federal grand jury said his specialty was military and atomic secrets.

He is Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, 55, the highest ranking Red Agent ever arrested for espionage in this country. He apparently had links with the hierarchy of the Kremlin's spy apparatus.

To conceal his own background, Abel borrowed the birth certificate and identity of an American child who died 55 years ago.

His methods, the government said, involved microfilms hidden in hollowed-out objects and short wave radio contacts with Moscow.

Senate Passes Civil Rights Bill, 72-18

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Wednesday night took the historic step of passing a civil rights bill, for the first time in more than 80 years. But the effectiveness of the measure was sharply disputed.

The vote, climaxing a marathon debate which began July 8, was 72-18.

Whatever its merits, the bill now goes back to the House for consideration of Senate changes which, while they forestalled a threatened Southern filibuster, have raised the threat of a presidential veto.

The House could accept the Senate measure and send it to President Eisenhower for his signature. Or, as seemed more likely it could send the bill to a Senate-House Conference Committee in an effort to work out a compromise.

Moves looking toward a compromise that would alter the controversial jury trial provision in the Senate bill picked up momentum in the House in advance of Senate passage of the measure.

As it emerged from its long amending process in the Senate, the bill would establish a civil rights commission in the Justice Department. It would set up a bipartisan commission with broad subpoena powers to make a two-year investigation of civil rights problems.

The enforcement section of the bill would empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions against any violations of individual voting rights. Disobedience of the injunctions could be punished as a contempt of court.

The jury trial amendment was attached to this section. It would require jury trials in all cases of criminal contempt — not only in voting rights cases but a host of other injunction proceedings, including those involving labor disputes.

In civil contempt proceedings designed to compel compliance with court orders rather than to punish—judges could still send recalcitrants to jail without jury trial.

75 BEAUTIES POSE PROBLEM FOR POLICE

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Police had a problem Tuesday night—what to do with 75 beautiful girls.

The ladies, members of a chorus line scheduled to perform at the 101st Williamson County Fair, arrived a day early. Their hotel reservations were not until Wednesday night and the town was jammed.

Officers sent out calls for help. Finally, private lodging was provided for them—all except eight. They slept on chairs in the police station.

Charge Lawyer Plotted Death Of Rival In Love Triangle

CHICAGO (AP) — Two men Wednesday accused a Loop lawyer of hiring them to kill a Chicago department store owner whose wife the lawyer had been dating.

Police said the accusers related that they backed out of the plot but that the victim, Sanford Lermer, 46, was shot to death April 3 in the vestibule of his North-west Side home in a fashion identical to the plan given them.

Police booked the lawyer, Joseph R. Roth, 51, on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and conspiracy to commit assault, both misdemeanors. He was released on $400 bond.

Roth denied the accusations of Sheldon Polakoff, 39, of Lakeside, Mich., a former Chicago saloon owner, and Donald Dubey, 29, of Chicago.

He refused further comment, but his attorney, William Gerber, said: "We deny the charges. There is no merit to them."

The third person in the alleged love triangle, Mrs. Lilyan Lermer, 45, was questioned and released. Lermer, owner of Tad's Dry Goods Store, at 3747 N. Southport Ave., once was placed under police guard after he reported that a man accosted him and said:

"A man wants me to kill you for $2,000. Give me $1,800 and I'll forget about it."

A painstaking police investigation by Detectives Charles Fitzgerald and Wilbur Davis led to Roth's arrest Tuesday night.

Roth was killed.

Movie Comedian, Oliver Hardy, Dies Of Stroke

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Oliver Hardy, the frowning clown who lumbered like a tipsy elephant through more than 200 slapstick movies, died Wednesday. He was 65.

Hardy, the heavier half of the fat man-thin man comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, had been virtually incapacitated since last fall when he suffered a stroke.

He died quietly at the San Fernando Valley home of his mother-in-law, where he had been staying with his wife, Lucille.

The news of his death was not relayed immediately to Laurel because it was feared the shock might be too much for the skinnier, lantern-jawed little man. Laurel, 67, suffered a paralytic stroke in 1955 and has been moving around with a cane since he achieved partial recovery.

When he did get the news, Laurel said: "What's there to say? It's shocking, of course. Babe—a nickname for Oliver—was like a brother. That's the end of the history of Laurel and Hardy."

The Laurel and Hardy heyday has been over more than a decade so far as production of new movies is concerned, but their uproarious attempts to move pianos and carry window panes have been perpetuated by television. Comedies they made a quarter of a century ago are turning up regularly on TV, but this revival of their bumbling routines hasn't earned them a nickel. Their contracts had no provisions for TV royalties.

A close friend of Hardy said Wednesday that the mellow-voiced comic had "not exactly been rolling in money" the last years, but was still comfortably well off. His recent illness cost him about $25,000.

Among Seminole Indians, the color yellow symbolizes death.

There was testimony in the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, that the money supposedly was diverted through collusion between union and management, but this was not nailed down.

One big reason it was left in the air was that Bernard Teitelbaum, business manager of the union local concerned, took the Fifth Amendment and refused to say whether he knew about or had condoned the arrangement.

Tolkow also used the Fifth Amendment in refusing to say whether he had been a Communist, or was one now.

The Senate committee dug into the Roto-Broil situation first with testimony from Irving Jacobson, executive vice president of the New York firm.

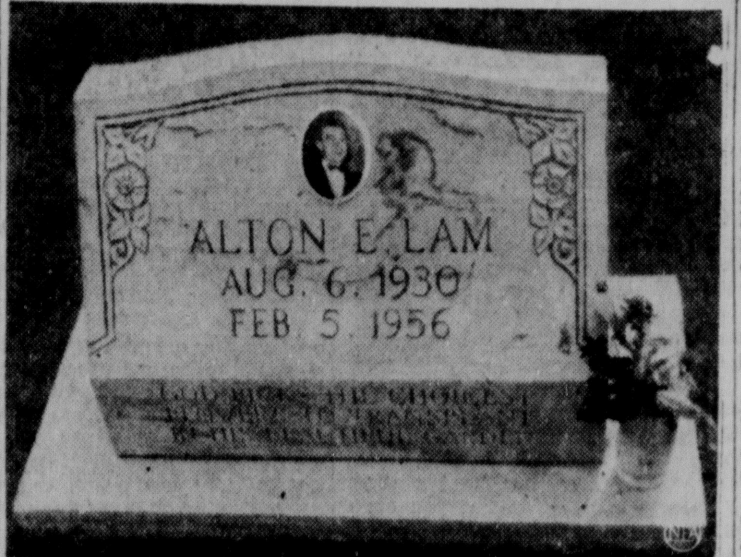

The union in the case was Local 353 of the former United Auto Workers (AFL), one of the locals identified by the committee as controlled by Johnny Dine. A committee labor racketeer the committee plans to question Thursday in its probe of alleged racketeering.

A PRAYER AND AN ANGEL—Mrs. E. C. Lam of Elkton, Va., prayed that her son Alton, who died at 26 in an auto accident, had reached heaven. She looked for a sign that her prayer was answered. She believes it was—in the outline of an angel's face, with halo and outstretched arms, that has appeared on her tombstone. Her son's face was etched on the stone and the face that has appeared is seen beside it on the right. The outline began to appear in the smooth, white marble stone shortly after Mother's Day this year. It has been growing clearer ever since. Mrs. Lam feels her prayer is answered. A fence has been erected around the tomb to keep the hundreds of curious at a respectable distance.

Flaws In Air Traffic

Investigation thus far suggests that an explosion ripped open the fuselage of the Western Air Lines plane which landed at an emergency desert base in California with a gaping hole in its side and a passenger missing.

Whether or not this heavily insured passenger was responsible for the blast, the incident poses a problem of increasing seriousness for the airlines.

Not forgotten, of course, is the terrible tragedy over Colorado in 1955, when a bomb planted by a young man eager to realize insurance on his mother's life brought death to 44 passengers on a United Air Lines plane.

And in recent months there have been innumerable bomb scares.

It would seem to require a very special callousness to choose as a method for murder or suicide a technique that almost certainly would bring death to dozens of other wholly innocent persons.

If in the California or any other case there is proof that an explosive was carried aboard an aircraft, there is likely to be a move for severe control of airline departures and arrivals—to the point of careful examination of all luggage.

This would be a drastic step, but the casual approach appears to have grave flaws.

What's In A Name

When asked the difference between a liberal and a conservative, there are those who like to say that a liberal stresses human values and a conservative highlights property values.

By any reasonable standards this must be judged a vast oversimplification, and certainly a superficial definition.

Human values are intertwined with property values. The latter, after all, were conceived by human beings.

They relate closely to important rights cherished by the human individual—the right of privacy and with it no small measure of human dignity, the right to hold and use material possessions as one chooses, the right to accumulate the fruits of one's labor.

A "liberal" who does not respect these rights is probably not as concerned for human advancement as he imagines. And a conservative who respects them is for human welfare whether he likes that term or not.

Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—In this civilization a middle-aged man can have many adventures.

He can float on a raft to the foggy isles of the south Pacific.

He can discover a misprint in the Long Island railroad's timetable.

He can perhaps even find a new true love.

But if he's 46 and got a partial plate—I'll tell you one thing he can't do. He can't chew gum and feel any younger.

Ever since I had my four upper front teeth pulled some weeks ago, envious strangers have stopped me in the street to find out what the result was.

Frankly, I feel it's the kind of stranger—but, please, not me again.

For the dentist replaces your lost ivorys with plastic copies that bear about the same relation to your original teeth as Benedict Arnold does to George Washington.

Your friends who have lost all of their teeth may counsel, "There's nothing to it. Don't worry. You'll never know the difference."

They may brag they can eat anything they want. The fact of the matter is that seven out of eight times they will order chicken a la king. They always unconsciously are saving their molars to bite a better meal. It must be that. They certainly aren't using them.

A man who has 32 false teeth (in inflation times you even buy false wisdom teeth) may say he can't tell the difference between his fine new bought chompers and the ones he pulled out. All I can say is that he is gifted with a remarkable lapse of memory.

Myself, I am only missing my four front upper teeth, like I said, but I'll tell you it's like a boy losing four mothers right in a row, and all of 'em his.

A man with a partial plate feels like he has a mouth full of marbles but, unlike Demosthenes, this sensation doesn't encourage him to further oratory. The small new whistles in his speech, which yesterday he thought would be gone by tomorrow, is still there next week. He begins to hate the letter "S."

The worst blow to the self-respect of a man with a partial plate comes when he tries to chew gum for the first time—which is usually the last time.

I just finished making this effort. I started with one piece and went on, piece after piece, until I had the whole package in my mouth.

Each piece clung to the denture deeper so that finally I could no longer either whisper or hiss—I

Thinking It Over—

God is the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the ending. Almost everyone looks vaguely back to the Creation and gives the credit to the Supreme Being. Likewise people consider God when they think of the end of the world or of the end of their lives.

Many folks go through life with a vague thought of God. Yet when they have to face death, they review their errors, their shortcomings, and their failures. It is then that they turn to God and seek His presence and His strength.

We must not wait until the end of life to live with God. We must have His presence and His leadership from the beginning to the end. God must be the Beta, Gamma, Delta and all the other steps between Alpha and Omega. thing that ought to happen to a

Ice Cream's No Real Balm
For Child's Hurt Feelings

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Frank's mother pushed a supporting pole under her line of wet laundry and went down to the cellar for more. When she returned, Frank had shimmied halfway up the pole and was hanging from it upside down like the sloth in his alphabet book.

Then the line broke. Frank fell—and with him his mother's row of just-washed sheets.

She punished him. In his room she spanked him as hard as she could. Then she slammed the door on his howls because she wanted so to howl herself she couldn't stand the noise of his.

Luckily, the fallen sheets weren't a total loss. When she'd fixed the line, she turned the hose on them. As the water sprayed them clean, anger at Frank began to subside. She thought, "After all, at this age, they all climb everything. I wish we could afford a jungle gym in the yard."

When she'd finished hanging up all her wash, she called Frank down and gave him a plate of ice cream.

I hope she doesn't make a habit of this.

To a hurt child, ice cream is not a fair substitute for an expression of affectionate feeling. It would have been more nourishing to say to Frank, "I've been thinking about what you did. I understand now that you climbed up the laundry pole not to ruin my laundry but to show me how well you can climb."

It is not wise to depend on food to comfort a hurt child.

Psychiatrist Hilde Bruch is noted for her research into the causes of obesity in children. In her recently published book, "The Importance of Overweight," she writes, "Quite often food has been offered by the mother as a substitute for love and emotional satisfaction."

If we insert food into Frank whenever he feels hurt or discouraged, he begins to equate comfort with food. As he's hungry for a non-material intake of our respect and confidence, it can't feed him. But with no experience in true comfort, he seeks the only kind he's known. And begins to develop a morbid, unending craving for food that leads to overweight.

A hurt child can no more find real comfort in the grocer's merchandise than he can in the merchandise of the liquor store.

Fear of 'Clandestine Bomb' Behind Disarmament Talks

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mutual fear of the so-called "clandestine bomb," which is shared by Russia, Britain and the U.S., has been a prime reason for keeping the London disarmament talks going.

"Clandestine bomb" is the term they've tacked on nuclear weapons which might be made by unscrupulous armament makers or irresponsible governments.

The world state of the nuclear weapon art is such that it's possible smaller countries or a large munitions combine could start producing some kind of A-bombs within the next 10 years.

It's not hard to imagine the international havoc there would be if any power-mad dictator could buy nuclear bombs or have them made at home. A top U.S. scientist puts it this way:

"The danger of a worldwide conflagration from a mistaken judgment or hasty act on the part of a nation armed with nuclear weapons increases in direct proportion to the number of nations possessing such weapons."

Also, as the number of nations possessing nuclear weapons increases, so does the difficulty of establishing any international control over such weapons.

TODAY, U.S., Russia and Britain are the only nations known to possess nuclear bombs. All three recognize the urgent need to put some brakes on further nuclear weapon development. As the group grows, so does the threat of the clandestine bomb.

Experts agree France will be the next country to produce atomic bombs. And in the near future, they say. This probably explains why France is against any international ban on nuclear weapon testing at this time.

Italy, it is known, is close to being able to make atomic bombs. West Germany has the scientific community and the industry to get into the A-bomb race in a relatively short time.

Canada, of course, if it wanted to, could begin making atomic bombs almost any time. It has the know-how, plenty of uranium and the industrial capacity.

Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark have made great strides in the peaceful uses of atomic energy. This increases their capability of producing atomic weapons.

In Asia, Japan is likely to be the first to produce both hydrogen and atomic bombs. A U.S. Atomic Energy Commission official has stated flatly that new discoveries of uranium in Japan mean that it will have nuclear weapons within 10 years.

IN SOUTH AMERICA, Venezuela, Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Peru have ambitious atomic energy programs under way. As far as U.S. observers can tell these programs are centered on peaceful uses of the atom. But again, this work spreads the knowledge of nuclear matters and increases the danger of clandestine bomb projects being started.

Unfortunately, the experts agree, the easiest bombs to make would be the "dirtyest," the ones with the most fall-out. It's considered likely that weapons with less boom, and more death-dealing capability with radioactive poisons, would be the best clandestine bombs.

They would give more death for the dollar.

To make the most simple, dirty A-bombs, nothing like the huge Hanford or Oak Ridge A-plants in the U.S. would be needed, experts say. The easiest way would be to get hold of the processed fissionable materials by illegal means.

A BY-PRODUCT of natural uranium power reactors is plutonium, a basic ingredient for bombs. As more natural uranium reactors are put into operation around the world, the stockpile of bomb material will grow.

This is a danger which the U.S. recognizes in its atomic-sharing agreements with other countries. As a result there's minimum danger of U.S.-produced fissionable materials being diverted to clandestine bombs.

All responsible nations with atomic energy and nuclear weapon programs will have to cooperate in establishing similar safeguards if the world is to be kept free from clandestine bombs.

Widowed Mother's Plight Disregarded by Daughter

The problems of a 13-year-old can be pretty big. And one of the biggest problems of a teen-age girl is not being able to get along with her mother.

A 13-year-old girl writes: "My mother and I aren't getting along at all since my father died three years ago.

"I don't have a steady boy friend because my mother doesn't approve of anyone I want to go steady with. She doesn't seem to try to understand me and she is making me almost hate her by being so strict and so hard on me."

There's more than one problem here. It is just as important for you to try to understand your mother as for her to try to understand you.

Has it ever occurred to you that your mother is lonely and maybe even frightened? She no longer has your father to share problems with, to depend on for earning a living, to help make decisions, to share the responsibility of bringing up you.

MOTHER'S ALONE All the responsibility is hers. She, alone, now is responsible for your safety, your welfare and giving you your chance to make something of yourself.

Fear of making a mistake, of doing the wrong thing, of losing her control over you probably makes her much more strict than she would have had your father lived.

So try to understand what she is up against. And instead of resenting your mother's hard and fast rules, try by cooperation and love and dependability to let her see that you are growing up, that you can be trusted.

You aren't the only one who is having a rough time—and don't forget it.

However, hard as it has been for you since your father's death, you must realize it has been even harder for your mother. And she needs your help and understanding just as much as you need hers.

Manners Make Friends

People usually go to a lake for peace and quiet. Too often they are forced to listen to loud portable radios or the shouts and squeals of boisterous groups.

There's too little quiet left to destroy this way.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats aimed at one bird in the civil rights bill. But they used a shotgun and hit everything in sight.

They acted so hastily in amending President Eisenhower's civil rights bill—with the help of a handful of Republicans—that right now they don't know all they hit or the full effect of what they did.

At least 40 laws, many government agencies and all the federal courts are affected. That much is known.

Eisenhower reportedly will veto this bill if the House agrees to what the Senate did and sends it to him. Because of the measure's widespread and uncertain effect, it's hard to see how he could do otherwise, even though vetoing it puts him on a political hot-spot with Negro voters.

The bill was intended to protect Negroes' voting rights. It gives them far more protection than they've ever had. But its effects go far beyond voting rights.

The Eisenhower administration proposed letting the attorney general stop when Negroes' voting rights are violated. He could ask a federal judge for a court order to stop the violations.

Anyone disobeying could—after a trial on a charge of civil contempt—be jailed until he complied. Anyone disobeying after it was too late for compliance could be given a flat jail sentence for criminal contempt of court.

In both cases—civil and criminal contempt—the judge, without a jury, would do the trying and sentencing under the administration's proposal. There is nothing new in this. Trial by judge for contempt of court has existed throughout American history.

In a very few instances there have been specific laws permitting trial by jury in cases of criminal contempt. The Constitution guarantees jury trial for crimes but not for contempt of court.

A crime—being a violation of state or federal law—is an offense against the state or the government. Contempt of court is an offense against the authority of a judge and his power to command compliance with his orders.

Southern Democrats did not argue against trial by a judge alone for civil contempt. But for criminal contempt they demanded a jury trial. Some Northern Democrats, avoiding a split in the party agreed to that and then went far beyond it.

Thirty-nine Democrats and 12 Republicans—with 9 Democrats and 33 Republicans opposing them—voted to provide trial by jury in every criminal contempt of court case. That's a huge order.

A number of laws provide for court orders—and trial by a judge for criminal contempt—but no one knows how many. The latest count, before the vote Thursday night, was 40.

Tied in with those laws are many government agencies—like the Securities and Exchange Commission, the National Labor Relations Board, the Federal Communications Commission—which depend on court orders for final carrying out of their rulings.

Also affected are such laws as the Antitrust Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act which, with the government trying to carry them out, depend in the end on a court order to compel compliance.

The courts would still have great authority to get compliance through civil contempt action.

Whether or not people who are in criminal contempt of court should be tried by a judge or jury is a legitimate and profound question. The Senate could have voted jury trial for contempt of court in voting rights cases and stopped there.

But it went beyond that in a way hardly fitting consideration of an amendment so far-reaching. Ordinarily in questions of such magnitude both houses of Congress, before voting, would do this: They'd hold hearings to get the views of federal judges, the federal agencies involved, the American Bar Assn. and all other interested parties. No hearings have ever been held on this.

No one except senators had a chance to give views. The Democrats slammed this legislation together on the floor of the Senate.

Communication

Dear Editor:

Perhaps this letter will be of interest to you. At the recent county fair I had an exhibit on wild life conservation. It was not an entry as my entry was a bird house for the judging. I felt a bird house was not a very good example of what was being done in this project. So I scaled down a tree, showing the ways of attracting birds and wild game by giving them food, water and safety. My prize possession—a stuffed pheasant—was used to make the exhibit more realistic. Various types of bird houses, feeders, etc., were on and around the tree with typed cards giving an explanation.

Sunday afternoon I went to the fair grounds to pick up my entry. (There had been a death in the family and I was away from home Saturday and couldn't get into town to get it Saturday night.) When I got to my exhibit it had been ruined by vandals. The pheasant no longer had any tail feathers—someone had pulled them out. All my bird houses were missing, some feeders damaged, and my ribbon taken. This exhibit was the results of several months of hard work. It was to be used later as my 4-H exhibit for a window display.

To me this has been an expensive lesson both in time and money. Please write a little item on this type of vandalism. This display, I know, is only a small example of things that go on. Had my display been destroyed in the wind storm, I could accept that as an act of God—but for vandals to do it—it is hard to understand.

Thanks, John H. Anderson, Age 13 (Victory Ave., Chapin)

P.S. The fair officials did a fine job taking care of the entries. This must have happened after the wind storm struck and everyone was trying to help at the damaged tents. Several have told me they had seen the display earlier and it was still in good shape. This has been no fault of the officials. They have done a fine job taking care of all the entries.

DR. JORDAN SAYS

Same Name Shared by Unrelated Diseases

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

One of our more curious diseases is the subject of several inquiries.

One from Mrs. E. asks for some information concerning the symptoms and course of diabetes insipidus and whether there is a cure and if it is common.

It is not common in the usual sense of the word. Probably the principal symptom of diabetes insipidus is excessive thirst associated with the passage of extremely large quantities of urine. Unlike the more common diabetes mellitus, the urine does not contain excessive quantities of sugar. Actually the two diseases, though sharing part of the same name, are probably unrelated.

DIABETES INSIPIDUS is somewhat more frequent in young people and males. A family tendency to the disease has been suggested as responsible in the majority of cases, but the exact method of inheritance is not always clear.

The symptoms usually develop gradually, although sudden onsets have been reported. A victim may pass nearly four gallons of urine in 24 hours.

THE inconvenience of this disease is obvious. The appetite is likely to be normal, which is different from that in the common form of sugar diabetes in which hunger is likely to be excessive. In many cases the general health does not seem to suffer. People have been known to live with diabetes insipidus for 50 years; some spontaneous recoveries have taken place.

The location of the trouble is fairly well known. It is agreed that the source lies in a specific portion of the brain. Irritation or injury of this region will act on an area of the pituitary gland, reduce its hormone production and produce the symptoms of diabetes insipidus.

IF A SPECIFIC cause, such as a tumor of the pituitary is found, surgery may be attempted. If not, the administration of hormone obtained from the pituitary gland usually brings relief of symptoms, which may last for many hours. These treatments, however, have to be repeated and do not bring about a permanent cure.

Thus, except for those who can be treated surgically, diabetes insipidus is likely to remain a serious problem.

Will Transfer 9th Marine Unit To Okinawa Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon said today the 9th Marine Regiment will be transferred soon from Japan to Okinawa.

Formal announcement of the departure of the last ground combat force from Japan was delayed until this week to avoid any possible effect on the Okinawa elections held several days ago.

The Department of Defense said the advance party of the reinforced regiment, which has a strength of about 7,000 men, will leave Japan for Okinawa in a few days to prepare for the transfer of the main body of troops.

The departure of the regiment from Japan will leave these U.S. forces in that country: the 3rd Marine Air Wing, numbering about 6,400 men; a U. S. Navy establishment of some 7,000; Air Force units totaling about 50,000; and 17,000 Army support and caretaker groups.

Phone Company To Move Office From Springfield

The General Telephone Company of Illinois' executive office at 1130 South Sixth street in Springfield, will be moved to Bloomington, Illinois in about two years, it was announced by Burton W. Saunders, president.

"A new building will be constructed in Bloomington, and various sites are now under consideration. Bloomington is the largest of the 310 exchanges in Illinois served by the company. The General Telephone Company of Illinois does not operate in Springfield. Its Jacksonville exchange is housed in a new building on West Beecher avenue.

"It is felt that there are many advantages to having the general office in a centrally-located city served by the company. This move has been under consideration for some time, and now that the building at 1130 South Sixth street is not large enough and cannot be enlarged sufficiently to meet future requirements, operational efficiency demands that the move to Bloomington be made."

Saunders further stated that approximately 200 employees will be affected by this transfer.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Discussions in London indicate Britain would be willing to give up her sovereignty—but not her military bases—in Cyprus if she could just find some means of doing so gracefully.

As it is the conflict between Greece and Turkey—which Britain helped foster when she was determined to maintain indefinite control—stands as a bar to any solution.

As the next meeting of the United Nations General Assembly approaches, Britain would like to get negotiations under way with Turkey and Greece to forestall another debate on the subject.

All discussions of Cyprus now merely adds fuel to both Communist and non-Communist anti-British propaganda in the Middle East. In the last year, Britain has had about all of that she can stomach.

But Britain's troubles lie not only in the substance of the problem itself.

She is stymied by the mere technique of getting negotiations started before any formal demand from the General Assembly that she do so.

The relations between Britain and Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Cypriot movement for union with Greece, is much the same as that between the United States and Red China. The United States has many things about which it needs to deal with Peking, but will not do so as long as the Reds stand convicted and unrepentant of aggression. Makarios in British eyes stands convicted and unrepentant of directing terrorism in Cyprus.

They freed him from exile but will not let him return to Cyprus. In Athens, he says he won't negotiate until he's home. Nobody on Cyprus will move without him.

At the other end of the squeeze is Turkey.

As long as Britain was determined to retain sovereignty in Cyprus the Turks were all for it. Now that Britain is wavering, the Turks have flopped for partition of the island between the one-fifth of the population of Turkish extraction and the nearly four-fifths of Greek extraction.

Britain would like for the United States and her other NATO partners to intervene in the search for a solution.

But if Britain is already in trouble with Greece and Turkey, also members of NATO, the United States sees no profit from becoming likewise involved, leaving the smaller partners no place to go but out.

Chapin Legion Burgoo, Homecoming Aug. 10

The Chapin American Legion and Auxiliary members are busy this week completing arrangements for the annual burgoo and homecoming which will be held Saturday, August 10. They are assisted by friends who are not members of either organization. Much of the food is donated by the people of the community. The men will work at night this week getting everything in readiness. The solicitors will pick up donated vegetables early Friday morning and all members are expected at the Legion Home to prepare the vegetables. Elza Perry of Meredosia will be on hand again this year to make burgoo as he has for the past several years. In addition to soup there will be the usual good things to eat—ham, barbecue, hamburgers, potato salad, pie, cake, and ice cream. Serving will begin at noon and continue until sold out.

DOPE TRAFFIC—Enough heroin to produce more than ten million shots was shipped from Milan, Italy, into the United States, narcotics agents of three nations report. The agents, from Switzerland, Turkey and Italy, say the heroin was produced in Turkey (see Newsmap), smuggled to Italy via Switzerland and refined in a Milan laboratory. It was then routed to America. The Milan price of the dope (about 154 pounds) would be about $15,000. But on the U.S. black market it would run into millions, officials said.

Since he was 24, the young gun merchant has been equipping armies from South America to Western Europe. His sharp business sense has shot what was once just a gun collecting hobby into a two million dollars a year business.

At 30, He's International Arms Merchant

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Arms throughout the world plus thousands of American weapons collectors daily train their sights on a 30-year-old Virginia salesman.

Youthful Samuel Cummings is in no danger. Their aim is strictly business. He just happens to have more of what they want than anybody else in the United States. And that's guns. Cummings is president of The International Armament Corp. of Alexandria, Va. Since he was 24, the young gun merchant has been equipping armies from South America to Western Europe. His sharp business sense has shot what was once just a gun collecting hobby into a two million dollars a year business.

From his five warehouses on the banks of the Potomac River, Cummings supplies governments friendly to the United States with modern firearms ranging from pistols to machine guns. That's just part of the business, though. He also scoops up entire arsenals of antique, obsolete weapons from these countries. Then he sells these to gun cranks all over the United States. Cummings' success secret is his ability to smell out surplus weapons stores. Government rules prevent him from buying up surplus in the United States. But there's nothing to stop him from obtaining excess stocks of modern guns in other countries. And in many of these foreign warehouses he's found quantities of American-made weapons.

After cleaning out one of these stores, Cummings is ready to start selling. There's always a buyer, Cummings says, some armies are still using guns that were new in the last century. It's in these gun-poor countries that the young weapons merchant makes some of his most fabulous deals. First he sells them new guns. At the same time he offers to take the ancient arsenals off their hands. If they say yes, he may knock several hundred dollars off the cost of the new guns. Although it sounds like shot-gun business management, actually the deal brings down profits with the accuracy of a high-powered rifle. Cummings estimates that 40 per cent of his annual two million gross business is made by selling the old weapons to American collectors. Fifty thousand letters pour into his office each year from gun cranks. Cummings says about 90 per cent of these letter writers end up buying.

VIRGINIA ARMS MERCHANT Sam Cummings looks over an Italian-made rifle in one of his crowded warehouses. Gun was used in Ethiopian campaign and World War II. Cummings sells them in U. S. to gun cranks and sportsmen.

His biggest competitor in the new gun market is the United States government. However, Cummings says that by buying foreign surplus he can beat the government's price. Also he reminds buyers they have to go through less red tape when they deal with him.

His deals are popular enough to keep him out of the country for about eight months every year. Buying, selling and demonstrating weapons sends him to Europe, Africa, the Far and Middle East and South America.

The job is not without its headaches. For one thing the bodyguards of some South American presidents have doubts about Cummings. He complains that when he's demonstrating a gun for a Latin American leader, a bodyguard's weapon is usually trained on him.

Then there was the time when a boat load of old guns being shipped to Cummings stopped off at a Cuban port. The only trouble was the port was near rebel territory. A lot of people got excited before Cummings finally convinced them the guns were for American collectors and not the rebels.

A business like this arouses the interest of a lot of very particular people. But the young salesman has grown used to the constant check-ups of the State Department, FBI, Treasury and Customs Bureau.

Greene Supervisors Hear New Tax Plan

CARROLLTON—County Treasurer Floyd Kimbro and assistant State's Attorney L. A. Mehrhoff explained the new building, description and value calculation plan, which is to be followed next year in assessing taxes in the county, at a luncheon meeting of the Greene County Board of Supervisors held Monday in the Baptist church dining room with Kimbro as host.

Prior to the luncheon and the program of the afternoon the board had met in a business session in its office in the court house. Mrs. Margaret Cook of Greenfield has been employed as tuberculosis nurse for the ensuing year.

Alfred Johnson, Carrollton; S. G. Sykes, White Hall; and Loren Carr of Kane were reappointed members of the County Welfare Services committee.

A bridge aid bill for Athensville township was allowed, the total cost to be $15,000 with one-half of same to be paid by the county and the other half by the township. The bridge is to be built across Lick creek as it crosses the highway from Richwoods church to the Morgan county line.

Flood Relief Resolution

A resolution concerning flood relief was passed in the county in which the county will proceed with applications for flood relief in various parts where damage was to the extent which would meet with the requirements set forth by the Civil Defense Administration.

Announcement was made of the fact that the work of re-roofing the court house had been completed by Melvin Nash of White Hall. The statue atop the roof of the court house had been repaired and given a new coating of white paint and the lettering on the monument holding the cannon at the front entrance to the court house had been cleaned and repaired until it is now readable. Other work done around the court house included the mounting of the old bell that hung in the original court house on a standard and placing it in the northeast corner of the present court house grounds.

The bell which has now returned to the court house hung in the belfry of the Woodbury school near Kane for many years and when the school building was sold a few years ago the bell was purchased by Congressman Sid Simpson who gave it to the Greene County Historical Society who in turn gave it to the board of supervisors with the request that it be returned to the court house property as an article of historical value.

Many Disabled Receive Social Security Checks

Monthly checks are now being mailed to severely disabled persons who have qualified for social security disability insurance benefits. H. J. Vasconcelles, manager of the Springfield district social security office, stated Wednesday that over 100,000 persons in the country will receive their July checks early in August. July is the first month for which disability benefits can be paid.

Severely disabled workers between the ages of 50 and 65 may qualify if they worked in employment covered by the law for at least 5 of the 10 years preceding onset of their disability. They must also have covered work in one and one-half years of the last 3 years just before their disability started. The amount of the payment is the same as if the person had reached retirement age on the date he became disabled. No benefits are authorized for dependents.

Where a disabled person has made application but has not been notified of final action on his claim, he will be advised as soon as possible. No inquiry is necessary. If the claim is approved, payment may also start with the month of July.

Disabled persons who believe they may be eligible for benefits should contact the nearest social security office if they have not done so in the past. Applications filed before the end of 1937 permit payment back to July. Disabled persons under the age of 50 should apply to freeze their account. This will protect their earnings record while they are off work and help qualify them for monthly payment at age 50, if they remain disabled.

Japanese Scholar Guest Speaker At Brooklyn Church

Jitsuo Kuroda, professor of Psychology at Seiwai Junior College of Okayama, Japan, was the weekend guest of the Rev. and Mrs. Clarence S. Bigler, of the Brooklyn Methodist church. Mr. Kuroda has been in this country for the last two years, and has been studying at the graduate school of Brown University, earning his doctor's degree in psychology. He has been spending the summer, working in the summer camp programs of The Methodist Church, as a national.

On Sunday evening he spoke to the Brooklyn Methodist Youth Fellowship. After giving something of the history and customs of his people, he showed kodachrome slides of his country. These showed the food, customs, clothing, and worship of Japan.

Mr. Kuroda stated it is hard for foreign students to return to their native lands, because the standard of living is so much higher in this country. There is, he said, little or no resentment of America in Japan. After his talking to the group, he spent the evening with them in the church and at the parsonage playing American and Japanese games.

Mr. Kuroda plans to leave for Japan, from the West Coast, early in September. He is spending this week at the North Central Jurisdiction of The Methodist church Workshop for Youth and Youth leaders, which is being held at MacMurray College, this week through Aug. 14.

2 CHILDREN DROWN NEAR WATSEKA

WATSEKA, Ill. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy and his 8-year-old sister drowned Tuesday in a pond near their Iroquois County farm home.

The dead, Alfred and Maxine Landrey, were children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landrey. Sheriff Merle T. Wilmoth said the couple's four other children witnessed the drowning. The Landrey home is about seven miles southwest of Watseka.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—The next big baseball bomb is quite likely to rock Cleveland.

The situation on the lakefront is of grave concern to the American League, already saddled with a hopeless set-up in Washington and dwindling interest in Kansas City.

A bold stroke must be made when attendance drops nearly two million in nine years, which is the sad story in Cleveland, a franchise made the best in the business by the master showman, William L. Veck, Jr.

The out-and-out panic in Cleveland is much too serious to be assuaged in the customary easiest-way-out—by firing the manager, in this case Kerby Farrell, who hardly has been around long enough to become acquainted.

It easily could result in the sale of the club by the practically absentee principal owners and financiers, William R. Daley and Ignatius Aloysius O'Shaughnessy, the latter of St. Paul.

The number of paying guests has fallen off so alarmingly that there has been substantial talk of switching the Indians to the new stadium in Minneapolis.

A much more likely development would be the dismissal of Hank Greenberg as general manager.

There are numerous reasons given for the gradual decline of Cleveland attendance from the all-time major league record of 2,620,000 in 1948. The record shows that the fans did not quit on the Indians easily or suddenly. There were 2,233,000 paid in 1949, 1,727,000 in '50, 1,704,000 in '51, 1,444,000 in '52, 1,069,000 in '53, 1,335,000 in the pennant winning year of '54 and 1,221,000 in '55.

Last year the attendance dropped below the million mark for the first time since the last of the Alva Bradley days in 1945. It was 855,467.

This year the Indians will be hard pressed to draw 700,000. They attracted no more than 532,258 in their first 51 games, went above the half-million mark only with the aid of the last weekend series against the Yankees, which drew 109,000.

The remaining home schedule is totally unattractive and the latest disaster in New York isn't going to help things any.

There is organized resentment against the front office, particularly Greenberg, who pulls well with everybody except the addicts who have to support his policy in Cleveland. For some reason, old Hank Pankus is murdered by followers of the Tribe, treated as though he had just dropped an easy fly to lose another game.

The fans grew tired of running second—live out of six years. The Giants sweeping the 1954 World Series in four straight from an outfit which won a record 111 games last badly.

Games were telecast a bit too freely for a spell and the trade didn't like it when the free ride was abbreviated.

The Indians are a dull, uninteresting lot with no spectacular individual attraction.

Despite new turnpikes, the customers no longer come in droves from out of town.

Bill Veck was called back this year, but fireworks, roving musicians and give-aways no longer worked.

Meanwhile, the Indians dropped far off the pace, and the clamor for a new deal all around became louder. It will take all that—and then some—to bring back what until recently was a matchless piece of baseball property.

College All-Stars Put Final Polish On Their Offense For N.Y. Giants

By TED SMITH
CHICAGO, (AP)—The College All-Stars put the final polish on their offense Wednesday for the 1957 football season's first big game and indications John Brodie of Stanford would be the key to the attack against the New York Giants.

The All-Stars meet the Giants Friday night at Soldier Field with a crowd of 75,000 or more expected.

The Giants, National Football League champions in 1956, left their camp in Winoski, Vt., by special plane Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Curly Lambeau of the All-Stars has made a mystery of his starting lineup but broad hints were dropped that Brodie, a sharp passer, would open at quarterback. Ron Kramer, ex-Michigan ace, is the best of an unusually strong group of pass catchers on the All-Star team.

The NFL championship team has won 14 games in the series against 7 for the All-Stars and 2 victories, and most of the All-Star victories were in the early years before the NFL reached its present peak.

Lambeau believes this year's group of collegians is as good as the 1955 team that beat the Cleveland Browns 30-27. "They've shown me they are capable of beating the Giants," said Lambeau.

Riverside Beats Greenville, 3-1, Finals Thursday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Riverside, Calif., Wednesday night edged Greenville, S.C., 3-1, to force the National Boys World Series into a final decisive game Thursday.

The once-beaten Californians, faced with elimination from the tourney, got strong pitching from Billy Rose to topple previously undefeated Greenville.

Rose struck out tight Greenville batters and limited the heavy-hitting South Carolina team to five hits. Catcher Rudy Chavez had a two-run single for the winners.

Previously, Greenville had administered an 8-0 defeat to Riverside.

Earlier Wednesday, Riverside beat a host Springfield team, 4-3, to eliminate them from the double elimination series. Greg Schanz, Riverside centerfielder, had four hits to lead his club.

Hoeft, Detroit Sail To Easy Win Over Tribe, 4-1

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers staked Bill Hoeft to an early four-run cushion Wednesday and the big lefthander sailed along on a six-hitter, defeating the Cleveland Indians 4-1.

A major disappointment most of the season after winning 21 games last year, Hoeft was his old self Wednesday, striking out 10 Indians and walking none.

His mates teed off on right-hander John Gray for three runs in the first inning and added another off Cal McLish in the second.

Hoeft, winning his fourth game in 10 decisions, had a one-hitter until the seventh inning when Gene Woodling singled, raced to third on another single by Vic Wertz and scored on Al Smith's fly to center.

Lawmakers Pass Queer Assortment Of Legislation

CHICAGO (AP)—State legislatures, busy with budgets and other burdens, found time during 1957 sessions to:

Make Nebraska liable to fines from $25 to $100 if their clocks do not show standard time.

Establish a Navy militia in mountainous, landlocked New Hampshire.

Prohibit killing of wild birds in Michigan with salt.

Ban nonresident youths of 20 years from buying a beer in Wisconsin unless their wives or parents are with them.

These and other legislative oddities were cleared by Commerce Clearing House, a national reporting agency on state and business law. Its survey also showed:

A Massachusetts legislative committee is trying to find the fairest way to tax machinery used for gathering moss.

Wisconsin lawmakers made parents liable for property damage up to $300 caused by their children. They defeated an amendment exempting parents who posted "Beware of Wild Child" on a conspicuous place on the child.

An Arizona legislator introduced a bill proposing that the Ten Commandments be incorporated into the law of the state. He remarked that even they couldn't get through the Legislature without amendment. His bill was promptly amended to read "public policy" instead of "law."

THORN TO TRAFFIC COP

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—Motorcycle patrolman Robert Stump complained that "a woman like that oughtn't be allowed to drive" as he reported that Mrs. Yvonne Clary, 33, of Whitesboro, Queens, 1, Roared along a city street at 90 miles an hour; outdistanced him in her 1957 automobile when he chased it.

When finally stopped and asked for license and registration, sped away a second time.

Was caught in New Milford, Pa., after state police there and in New York had been asked for aid.

4 So far has ignored a summons issued on a charge of speeding.

DISPOSING OF DISPOSABLES—This teepee-type incinerator, probably the largest of its kind in the world, gobbles up 30 to 35 hoppers of disposables per shift at Du Pont's Chambers Works in Penns Grove, N.J. One of the most significant and interesting developments in the search by American industry for ways to reduce costs is the growing use of disposables—comparatively inexpensive materials which can be used once and discarded. Disposing of these disposables presents another problem. At the Chambers Works, six specially equipped trucks, like the one at the incinerator opening, gather up the hoppers and deliver them to the incinerator.

Braves Increase NL Lead To 1 1/2 Games By Tromping Cincy, 12-2

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The first-place Milwaukee Braves flailed five Cincinnati hurlers with 15 hits, including two homers by Wes Covington, Wednesday night as the Braves grabbed a 12-2 victory, their 10th in 12 games with the fourth-place Redlegs, who fell six games behind the pace.

The victory, coupled with St. Louis' loss to the Cubs, gave Milwaukee a 11-game lead over the Cardinals.

The pitching victory went to Gene Conley, who allowed seven singles. Conley now has won seven of his last eight games and has a season record of seven victories and five defeats.

The loss was the ninth against 11 victories for starter Brooks Lawrence, who pitched two innings and gave up four runs on six hits.

ROODHOUSE — Monday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harms were Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoover, Amory, Miss, and the daughter, Mrs. Shue, and daughters, Davenport, Ia.

Mr. Harms and Mr. Hoover, both engineers on the G. M. and O. railroad, met when attending a convention at Cleveland, Ohio.

Weekend visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harms were their son, Fred Harms, and family, Springfield. The younger Mr. and Mrs. Harms were accompanied home by their son, Ronnie, who had spent the week in the home of his grandparents here.

Tom Emerson and H. L. Buckley of Margate, N.J., formed a racing stable in 1956 and it is called the "Buck Elm Stable."

WYNN SIDELINED
DETROIT (AP)—Cleveland pitcher Early Wynn was sidelined Wednesday by a recurrence of the gout, an ailment that has plagued him off and on since 1951.

The big 35-year-old righthander was scheduled to pitch against the Tigers Wednesday, but manager Kerby Farrell named John Gray to replace him.

Wynn was given a blood test; Tuesday and a physician placed him on a low protein diet.

The inflammation in the joints of his right hand has become so severe that it pains him to grip a ball.

Wilson Tosses 2-Hit Ball As Chisox Blank Kansas City A's, 7-0

CHICAGO (AP)—Righthander Jim Wilson pitched two hitless Wednesday as the Chicago White Sox capitalized on a streak of wildness by Kansas City pitchers for a 7-0 victory.

The Chicago triumph, combined with the New York Yankees' loss to Washington, trimmed the Yanks' lead to six games in the American League pennant chase.

It was Wilson's 12th win of the year against 7 setbacks. Wilson faced only 30 batters, 3 over the minimum.

Three double plays pulled him out of trouble in the middle innings.

Third baseman Billy Hunter and first sacker Irv Noren got the Athletics' only hits off Wilson. Hunter led off the first inning with a double, but was stranded at second base. Noren singled in the fourth frame but was rubbed out by a double play.

The Chicagoans broke open the game with a six-run third inning

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Yost's two-run homer was the big blow of a ninth-inning rally by Washington that netted all their runs and a 3-2 victory Wednesday over the New York Yankees, despite Mickey Mantle's 30th home run.

Until the ninth, Hank Bauer's leadoff homer in the first inning looked like the ball game. Tom Sturdivant had allowed only two singles in the first eight innings.

And he didn't allow a hit until Jim Lemon singled to open the seventh.

Roy Sievers, Washington's leading slugger who was out of the regular lineup because of a swollen left instep, pinch hit and singled to start the ninth-inning rally. Pedro Ramos ran for Sievers and scored on Yost's homer.

When both Pete Runnels and Lemon singled, Sturdivant was replaced by Bob Grim with two men on base and nobody out. Tom Berberet's sacrifice moved along both runners and Art Schull's sacrifice fly scored Runnels. Mantle's homer came in the ninth with nobody on base.

MISSING COACH RETURNS HOME
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—John Yovicsin, Harvard football coach missing since last Sunday, returned to his home here Wednesday after several days of "relaxing golf."

The 38-year-old coach said a police search for him resulted from a "misunderstanding between my wife and I about what my plans were."

"Let's put it this way—I spent the time playing golf which my wife thought I intended doing later in the week," the former Gettysburg College coach told newsmen on his arrival home.

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago rookie Dick Drott notched his tenth victory and teammates Walt Moryn, Bob Speake and Dale Long slammed home runs as the Cubs dropped the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night, 5-1.

The 21-year-old Drott surrendered only five singles but got into a bases loaded, one-out jam in the eighth. Dick Littlefield relieved and got pinch hitter Walker Cooper to hit into a double play.

Herman Wehmeier was the loser. Wehmeier, now 5-5, also lost his self-control in the sixth inning in a jawing session with plate umpire Ken Burkhardt and was ejected for tossing dirt on the plate.

Moryn knocked his 14th home run to lead off the second inning for a 1-0 lead for Drott, now 10-9.

Giants Nip Bums With 5-Run Ninth For 8-5 Victory

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Hank Sauer hauled the New York Giants from behind with a three-run, pinch-hit homer in a five-run ninth inning Wednesday night that beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 8-5.

Don Newcombe, last season's top winner, lost his fourth in a row for a 9-10 record.

Mary Grissom won in relief of Johnny Antonelli, who gave up all the Dodgers' runs on nine hits in his six innings.

Newcombe, who was 27-7 last year, had shut out the Giants for five innings on three singles until the ninth.

Daryl Spencer beat out a slow roller to open the ninth and Ed Bressoud beat out a high bounder to Newk. Then came Sauer, pinch hitting for Vaino Thomas with his 15th homer.

Reliever Clem Labine walked Grissom, and Don Mueller's left field tap and an error loaded the bases. Ray Jablonski then lined a two-run single to wrap up the scoring.

Braves Accused Of Tampering With Education

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Wisconsin college baseball coach Wednesday accused the Milwaukee Braves of interfering with the education of a player signed for a minor league farm club.

The Braves not only denied the charge but said the coach was a Cincinnati scout and that the Redlegs were trying to sign the collegian involved.

The controversy was touched off by the Braves' signing of Kenneth Roessler, 19-year-old Athens, Wis., outfielder for the McCook, Neb., club of the class D Nebraska State League in the Braves' farm system.

Roessler played varsity ball at Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis., for two years.

Al Skat, Carroll coach, said Roessler probably would make the grade in the major leagues some day "but now he'll just be an average ballplayer."

"With a couple of years of college ball behind him he could have been great," Skat added.

"This will really hurt him, he was a topflight student."

"It's all part of the lousy rule that permits pro baseball to sign college players but it's typical of the Braves to interrupt a boy's education."

John Mullen, Braves' farm director, took immediate exception to Skat's comment.

"This boy is definitely going to continue his education," said Mullen. "It is absolutely contrary to the Braves' policy to interfere or exert any influence in any way with a boy's desire to get an education. Our club never initiates the signing of such players; the boy has come to us. The decision not to continue in school would be the boy's own decision, not ours, but in this case Roessler definitely is going to continue his education."

Mullen termed Skat's charge that the move was of college ball would be preferable to minor league experience "just plain ridiculous."

Mullen said Skat was listed in the baseball register as a part-time scout for the Cincinnati Redlegs.

"We know the Redlegs were trying to sign Roessler," Mullen added.

GRAIN FUTURES MOVE LOWER

By WILLARD ROBERTSON
CHICAGO, (U)—Grain futures moved downward again Wednesday on the Board of Trade although soybeans showed some rallying power and corn held fairly firm.

Weather developments and export news were the main market influences. Wheat started some wheat weak and later moved lower. Soybeans steadied somewhat after early losses of more than a cent.

New style wheat closed 3/4 to 1 1/4 lower, corn 3/4 to 5/8 higher, oats 1/4 to 3/8 down, rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower, soybeans unchanged to 1 cent off, and hard 15 to 20 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Exporters bought soybeans against sale of 700,000 bushels of beans to Israel. Exporters also contracted sale of 12 million pounds of degummed soybean oil to Casablanca.

The rally on export news attracted profit taking, however. There was some later support in the pit because of forecasts for hot temperatures in many parts on the belt, and on trade belief that the government forecast Friday might be for a somewhat smaller crop than some traders have expected.

Hedge selling again was a depressing factor in wheat, as receipts of spring wheat continued heavy. Minneapolis and Duluth received 64 cars, compared with 243 a year ago.

The Agriculture Department said sales of 1956 crop soybeans taken over under loan was virtually completed. About 24 million bushels were sold, traders said. The USDA said that in view of the successful movement of the beans into commercial channels without disturbing market prices, the program would be carried out again next year with 1957 beans.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (U)—Corporate and U.S. government bonds closed lower Wednesday in the wake of higher interest charges in an already tight money market. Trading was moderately active.

Losses in U.S. government bonds ranged out to half a point in some instances. A rally in late afternoon erased some of the corporate bond losses but the trend was still down at the closing bell.

Corporate trading volume mounted to $14,000,000 par value on the Big Board from $3,110,000 Tuesday.

Utilities and rails were lower in the corporate list while industrials, investment quality issues were firm. Convertible issued led the late afternoon rally.

New York Stock Market

By WALTER RUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market changed its script Wednesday and advanced for the first time since July 12.

The session was featured by some erratic turnarounds in price trends and the heaviest volume of business in three weeks.

Gains of $1 to $3 a share were numerous. Losses were mostly held to fractions, except in some airlines which were down $1 or more.

The market was up on fractions to a dollar in early trading, then turned around and was down fractions to more than a dollar at mid-day. It was mixed by late afternoon, and moved ahead in the final hour. Aircrafts, steels and motors sparked the late rally, with most other divisions joining the movement before the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.10 to $182.40, with industrials up $1.70, rails $1.60 and utilities 10 cents.

Based on the average, an estimated $1,375,000,000 was added to the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The advance interrupted a 17-day period in which the market had closed lower eight times and mixed nine times.

Turnover amounted to 2,460,000 shares compared with 1,910,000 Tuesday. It was the first time volume went over the 2-million share level since July 18.

Brokers said the upturn was based largely on technical factors. They explained the recent declines had brought the averages down to the lows of June 24, where a rally could be expected.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange with volume totaling 760,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 680,000.

Senate Passes Civil Rights Bill

down were 43 Republicans and 29 Democrats.

Against were 17 Southern Democratic senators and Sen. Morse (D-Ore.), an advocate of strong civil rights legislation.

Five Southern senators voted against the bill—Johnson (D-Tex.), Yarborough (D-Tex.), Gore (D-Tenn.), Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Smathers (D-Fla.).

The Texas and Tennessee senators had not been sitting in on the strategy huddles of the Southerners who had led the fight against the bill.

President Eisenhower has announced a "wait and see" policy on whether he will sign or veto whatever Congress finally produces in the way of civil rights legislation.

But he told his news conference Wednesday he still opposes the jury trial amendment, considering it "most damaging to the entire federal judiciary."

The House passed its version of the bill, closely adhering to the administration's recommendations on June 18 by a 366-126 vote.

Nearly five weeks of debate preceded the vote in the Senate, which has provided a graveyard for civil rights bills in the years since the end of the Reconstruction Era that followed the Civil War.

In the past, Southern foes of the legislation have succeeded in blocking such legislation either by actual or threatened filibusters.

But the Dixie forces did not attempt to talk the present bill to death after the Senate voted to limit it primarily to a right-to-vote bill.

Senate Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex.) and Minority Leader Knowland (R-Calif.) obtained an agreement early Wednesday afternoon to cut off the civil rights debate seven hours, at the most, after the end of a speech Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) was then making. Stennis finished at 12:30 p.m.

President's News Conference

sals have run into, that somewhere along the line I have not done as well as might have been done.

"If, as you know, never employ threats. I never try to hold up clubs of any kind. I just say, 'This is what I believe to be best for the United States,' and I try to convince people by the logic of my position."

"If that is wrong politically, why then I suppose you will just have to say I am wrong. But that is my method, and that is what I try to do."

When Eisenhower was asked how it felt to be called a "short and ugly" name, he mentioned George Washington. The epithet "lousy liar" was reported to have been voiced by Rep. Bailey (D-WVa.), who has denied he said it.

Eisenhower described Washington as "the greatest human the English-speaking race has produced." Yet, he said, the things said about Washington during his second term make the things said about him "weak, inconsequential."

"I can be philosophical about it," Eisenhower added.

As to the gifts of which Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) has been critical, Eisenhower told the reporters it's all "on the record." He said he needs no gifts but accepts them as a "friendly, decent basis"—but never if the giver appears to have "any selfish motive of any kind."

CHICAGO (U)—A Circuit Court judge Wednesday ruled that he will determine the rightful master for Tobey, a 3-year-old Boston bull terrier, by watching the wags of Tobey's tail.

Judge Jacob M. Braude ordered the terrier be brought before him Aug. 20 to determine whether the dog prefers as a master his Omaha divorcee or her former husband.

The husband, Clarence Gaughan, 49, of Chicago, asked the court to cite his former wife for contempt and allow him to stop alimony payments. He contends she "dognaped" Tobey and he wants the pet back.

"I know the dog wants to be with me," Gaughan, a truck line employee, told the judge.

Mrs. Gaughan, who lives at 143 N. 31st Ave., Omaha, did not appear in court. But her attorney, Charles C. Cooley, denied she was a "dognaped."

India recently returned to the United States 50 million fine ounces of silver as partial payment for lend-lease aid given during the last war.

Gleeful Children Aid Hunt For 49 Monkeys

NORTH WALES, Pa. (U)—The last survivors of an army of wild monkeys, escapees from a biological laboratory, were still at large today.

The remnants of Platoon M, which numbered 49 at the start of the invasion, were gallantly holding out against superior forces. Their ranks were thinned by capture and death. The solid front had been dispersed into guerrilla hordes as they were being relentlessly pursued.

The clash between animals and humans started Tuesday when the 49 Rhesus monkeys escaped from the Merck, Sharp and Dohme research laboratories and swarmed through this community of 3,000 in suburban Philadelphia.

It wasn't long before calls began to bombard the police: "I was hanging out the wash when all of a sudden this monkey comes swinging down the clothes line and..."

"It was in the kitchen. I was washing the dishes when his hairy face pops up at the window. Scared? Why I almost dropped my best plate!"

A posse of lab workers, police and 50 gleeful children joined to hunt. The laboratory employees wore heavy clothes and carried nets. Police carried rifles. The youngsters acted as "beaters" to scare the monkeys into the nets.

By today all but 19 had been accounted for. Ten were recaptured and police shot 20 others. Those shot, a laboratory spokesman said, were high in trees and couldn't be taken alive.

The laboratory official said the monkeys, recent arrivals from India, were to have been used in the production and testing of polio and influenza vaccines. He said none of the animals had been inoculated with any virus.

"They can't yet be considered domesticated," the spokesman said. "They are still in a wild state. We are afraid that they might bite or scratch somebody."

Laboratory officials were at loss to explain how the "army" escaped from their large wire-closed cage guarded by a system of double doors.

He also reportedly owns more than half a million dollars worth of Procter & Gamble stock.

Before the Senate confirmed Wilson's appointment, it won his agreement to dispose of stocks worth at the time more than 2 1/2 million dollars. Most of these shares were in General Motors Corp., which Wilson headed.

TREED

Some 33 paratroopers of Canada's Royal 22nd Regiment know what it is to be "treed" after they were dropped by mistake over a pine grove instead of the regular drop zone while participating in Canadian army exercise "Eastern Star," at Camp Gagetown, N.B. At top a paratrooper dangles from a tree while his chute floats overhead. Bottom photo, one of his fellow jumpers holds on for dear life as other troopers form a human ladder to assist him to the ground. None of the paratroopers was seriously injured.

Nuttall says the rains were a big help in keeping fires down.

"But people are getting more careful. The publicity is hammering at them, making them conscious and keeping them conscious of fires."

He notes that if the rains, which are producing lush growths in tree tops and underbrush, should be followed by severe dryness, "we're liable to have a good big fire."

The next fire season comes in the fall with the hunting season, including deer this year. Nuttall doesn't expect any trouble because of Wednesday's shower.

He said an alert squad of game wardens would help beat out any beginning blazes.

Sheriff Halts Jail Break Wednesday In Carrollton

CARROLLTON — Acting on a tip from an undisclosed source, Greene county Sheriff Fred Ballard thwarted an attempted jail break Wednesday afternoon. Ballard received word that two of his prisoners were plotting a break. He then checked the cell in which they were being held and found they had been industriously tunneling under the jail wall. They had planned to finish the task some time Thursday evening.

The two men involved were William Bradford Duffer, 41, of Decatur, and his 21-year-old son, William Earl Duffer. Both men are being held over to the grand jury on charges of burglary and carrying concealed weapons. They are accused of burglarizing the Wildhagen Hardware store in Eldred, Ill.

They were arrested on the evening of July 31, as they walked along the G. M. & O. railroad near Jerseyville, after abandoning their 1940 Chrysler earlier the same day.

Sheriff Ballard removed the elder Duffer to the Federal jail in Hillsboro yesterday afternoon. His son is still being held in the Greene county jail.

Mother Gives Up Fight To Regain Twin Daughters

BELVIDERE, Ill. (AP)—A mother who for several months waged a court fight to regain her twin 3-year-old daughters tearfully gave up the battle Wednesday.

"I'm satisfied they're going to have a good home," said Mrs. Joan Hinrichs Burt after signing a release in Boone County Court. Judge Carl Suhrt immediately approved adoption of the twins by Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Cooper of Belvidere.

The Coopers had filed a petition to adopt the little girls after they had been the twins' foster parents for some time.

Mrs. Burt had placed the children temporarily in a Preppert home for children. They were born about five months after the mother and her first husband, Rudolph Hinrichs, were divorced.

Mrs. Burt originally had opposed the Coopers' adoption petition on religious grounds. The twins were baptized Roman Catholics. However, Mrs. Burt later said that she didn't want them adopted under any circumstances.

Wednesday, Mrs. Burt indicated that one reason she changed her mind had to do with financial problems. She said she has five other children and is working at two different waitress jobs in Chicago.

"I'm doing it for their welfare," she told a reporter, tears in her eyes.

The Coopers changed the names of the little girls from Mary Katharine to Juliet Agnes and from Margaret Ann to Jennifer Ann. The Coopers have another adopted daughter, Lisa Ellen, also 3.
